

The FCC should not impose any proposal that would lessen Indiana's Telephone Privacy law protections.

Since the time Indiana's Telephone Privacy law took effect, I have experienced a drastic decrease in telemarketing phone calls. This has improve the quality family time and meditation time which is extremely valuable to me. I have always found the uninvited calls to be annoying and rude. Most of the marketers refuse to take no for an answer. The marketers also never seem to care what time of day or night they called.

Please do not give them the oppourtunity or freedom to start calling again.
